Invitation

Dear future delegate,

Incredible improvements in human health have been achieved across the globe in recent decades, and, not surprisingly, our better understanding of interactions between society, economy, environment and health has raised a battery of new questions to answer.

Many of these questions will be addressed in the upcoming congress in Copenhagen: 8th European Congress on Tropical Medicine and International Health, 2013 (ECTMIH-2013). The congress will endeavour to look with critical eyes on current achievements in international health with focus on the link between scientific knowledge and practice, as well as to create a forum for interaction with colleagues around the globe and develop ideas for future research.

The city of Copenhagen and its Tivoli Congress Center offer a secure and pleasant environment for you to focus on your area of interest.

On behalf of the Federation of European Societies of Tropical Medicine & International Health, the Danish Society of Tropical Medicine & International Health and associated societies welcome you to Copenhagen in September 2013.

Yours sincerely

Kim David, Chair
